PROSPECT AUTOIST SUES ELECTRIC CO.

Blame C. D. & M. for Accident at Newmans Crossing.

Suit for $675 damages was brought against the C. D. & M. Electric Co. in common pleas court today by John Favorite of Prospect.

Favorite charges that a hole in the interurban crossing at Newmans, allegedly caused by rotting and breaking of planks in the crossing, caused his automobile to overturn Feb. 15, 1932.

The company, he asserts, permitted the crossing to become out of repair. His car was destroyed, his body was wrenched and he suffered bruises on his jaw when the accident occurred, he states.

Favorite is represented by the law firm of Carhart, Warner & Carhart and Paul D. Smith.

Good Work at the Right Time.

Announcement that East Center street is to be resurfaced is one of the best bits of news coming to Marion citizens in recent months. It is particularly gratifying in view of the assurance that this is to be a first class paving job, intended to provide a thoroughfare that will be vastly different from the present avenue of motoring torture.

Not only that, but the work will be done at a time when it will bring benefits to a large number of unemployed men of the community. Beyond doubt, the project will be an exceptionally helpful contribution to the relief situation here during the next few months. With that point considered, it probably is fortunate that the improvement was not made several years ago, when jobless men were not so numerous. Virtually all motorists will be glad to forget their past discomforts in realizing that the delayed remedy is coming at the most opportune time possible.

City and state highway officials are entitled to the thanks of Marion residents for their success in negotiating arrangements for this most urgently needed project. The state has been generous in agreeing to take over nearly three-fourths of the cost, but in so doing it is making a wise and practical expenditure. It will mean elimination of one of the worst spots in many miles of one of the state's most important east and west thoroughfares.

Beyond doubt the state highway officials took this point into consideration in agreeing to take over a major portion of the expense. Grover C. Snyder, director of maintenance in the highway department, is a Marion resident and consequently was thoroughly familiar with the situation and the urgent need for a remedy. He had an important part in effecting an agreement on the terms which made fulfilment of the project possible.

State officials also took into consideration the advisability of having the work done now, when it would mean so much to families of the unemployed. For that they are to be commended.

Had it not been for the state's willingness to bear most of the cost, it is virtually certain that the work could not have been done this year, as the city is not now in position to bear any heavy extra expenditure of funds.

The new paving will stand as a testimonial to sensible and timely action on the part of both state and city officials.

The Socialist Cause.

It is refreshingly different to find a candidate who does not claim election. Norman Thomas, who again heads the Socialist party as its presidential candidate, does not expect to be elected but he yields to political tradition by predicting that the Socialists will win in 1936.

Figures and circumstances support Mr. Thomas only in his first conclusion. Socialists reached their greatest political influence in 1920 when Eugene V. Debs, admired by many who did not share his political and sociological beliefs and wearing the crown of martyrdom from his imprisonment for a war-time speech he delivered in Canton, O., polled 919,799, an increase of only 20,000 over his vote of eight years previous and double his vote of 1912. In 1916 with war impending, Benson polled 585,113 votes on the Socialist ticket. The 1924 election furnishes nothing on which to estimate the party's strength, for conservative Socialists joined the cause of LaFollette, the Independent Progressive. Four years ago the same Mr. Thomas received 267,420 votes.

It is interesting to note that some of the principles which seemed radical enough to frighten the public in the days of Debs, a kindly apostle of political revolution, have since been accepted as sound theories of government and administration.

Good Time To Attack.

President Hoover selects a strategic moment to summon his supreme council in the war on depression. The time to attack, military geniuses agree, is when the enemy shows signs of weakness. Intricate systems of espionage are maintained by leaders of armies for the principal purpose of sending word if the enemy shows signs of wavering. At such a moment a drive is launched.

If the weakness come from within, so much the better. The depression is showing evidence of just such a condition. The last two weeks have shown indubitable signs of improvement and strangely enough, no particular reason can be found for such a movement. Trade reports were not especially encouraging and there were no developments in the economic fields to warrant the brisk and enthusiastic rise in stock and commodity prices and the general range of optimism which was seen throughout the country.

It takes no industrial spies to discover that depression has suffered a reverse and strategists figure that this condition comes through a breaking down of those very feelings and forces which have been responsible for the condition.

If such favorable trends in the business and financial world can come without any concerted effort to bring them about, certainly good may be expected from a sudden and strong-willed campaign to assist and some were held in foolish causes. Others failed to show accomplishments. No one will dispute, however, the wisdom of united council. It is a policy which starts with the individual business and goes up through the whole structure of the business and political world. It is especially sound in this instance because all of the conferees will meet in complete accord on the desirability of the end which they seek. There is not one among the 156 leaders of industry called by President Hoover but earnestly and honestly desires a return of prosperity.

The men invited to his informal board of strategy are leaders in whom the country has confidence. They include members of all parties, representatives of all lines of business and industry and exponents of varying schools of thought.

The mere fact that the most capable men of the country are to unite in a congress to study the nation's economic problem should have a strengthening influence for those welcome agencies which have indicated during the past weeks that America is well started on the climb back to prosperity.

Nature Keeps Balance.

Wise old Mother Nature laughs at the speculations of the scientists who figure that if the human population of the earth maintains the increase of the past century for another 150 years this globe will no longer be able to support the men clinging to its spinning surface.

Reproduction of kind has been going on for a very long time—something over 6,000 years, according to fundamentalists who figure by Biblical genealogy and millions of years by scientists who read the records in the earth's layers—but no living thing has ever increased to the extent that it came close to exhausting its possibilities of existence.

Nature, in its wonderful way of maintaining a reasonable balance, has provided for this. The elephant, which fears no other wild creature, is very large and may live to be 100 but the mother elephant bears one calf every three years. The rabbit which is small and the prey of every meat-eating mammal of its habitat including man, is born in litters of six or eight and the mother may raise three families in a single season. The natural span of life for a rabbit is short and few reach it because of the enemies which constantly threaten its life.

If elephants were born as profusely as rabbits or if rabbits had the longevity of elephants the earth would be overrun in either case, vegetation would be destroyed and all life would cease.

Birds show the same provision of nature. Tree-nesting song birds, reasonably secure from enemies, raise three or four young in a season. Ground nesting birds like the quail, the pheasant and the duck which are subject constantly to sudden death from hunters and predatory animals, lay from 10 to 20 eggs and some of them may raise two or three families but the hazards of their existence maintain nature's balance.

The earth's human population has doubled in the last century, scientists say. Advances in medicine, sanitation and wholesome living conditions have added 20 years to the normal expectancy of life. Over-population would be the inevitable result if this were to continue but nature, aided by economic laws, may be depended upon to take a hand before this comes about.

The ways in which this may be accomplished are not pleasant to contemplate. They may include wars, disasters and strange pestilences. More probably, however, the increase in humankind will be checked by economic and social causes as indicated by the decrease in the size of the average family as compared with those of the last century. It would be a happy world, however, if its people had no more to worry about than the possibility that their children's children may some day be so numerous that they will crowd each other off the earth.

Comment of the Press

WILL THE PEOPLE ACT?

Shall we get a full vote at the election of next November, representing the real will and the combined wisdom of the American people? Or will it happen as usual, that a very large share of our citizens fail to exercise this precious and sacred privilege of the suffrage?

As the years have gone on, our people are supposed to have gained in intelligence. Their schools are better, their education is more extended, they have more books, newspapers and magazines, they travel more and see more of the world. All these privileges should make them better citizens.

But do they show the results of these improved privileges by attending more carefully to the duties of citizenship? Alas, they do not, neither in Ohio nor anywhere else. Somewhere around half of the people who could vote, fail to qualify as voters, or they do not vote if they have qualified. In many state and local elections, the number of voters is much less.

Some people remark, that if a person is not interested enough in elections to vote, the judgment of such a person is not worth much, and he might as well stay away from the polls. But people of small intelligence are apt to cling to the suffrage right. It is the one time when they feel equal to others, and they cherish this chance to make themselves felt. Meanwhile a great body of intelligent citizens, who read and know what is going on in the world, will not take the trouble to go to the polls.

It is so very important for all thoughtful people to help shape the policies of their state and nation, that they should feel that they fail to be good Americans, and they show a most woeful disregard of their own interests, if they fail to cast a ballot at the coming election.—Newark Advocate.

THE OLYMPIAD.

Negroes of the United States justly will rejoice that in the great tests of the Olympic games at Los Angeles representatives of their race have stood in the forefront of achievement along with their Caucasion competitors from all the forceful lands of the globe.

We of the white skin rejoice with them. Tolan and Metcalfe, in the 100-meter sprint, carried the sport banner of their race to gallant victory.

The spirit of fairness and chivalry accords to Tolan and Metcalfe, and to all the aspiring souls of their race, full meed of praise and honor. Those two lads have helped prove to the world what great hearts can do "in times that try men's souls," as many of their racial brethren already often have demonstrated their fitness and capacity to accomplish notable achievement in other walks of life.

Daily Guide to Health

BY DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND.

Overweight May Prove To Be Dangerous.

There are many disadvantages in weighing too much. To carry too much flesh means lowered resistance to infections and to disease.

Obesity, or overweight, is one of the growing dangers of modern life. We know it, but do nothing about it.

Most persons who are overweight are careless in their eating habits. They eat too frequently, too much and of the wrong things.

In many instances overweight is due to a glandular disturbance. Regardless of what its cause may be, it is important to realize that overweight is abnormal and should be overcome. It is a definite hindrance to good health.

Most of my readers are aware of this fact. They know of many thin persons who rarely succumb to any disease, and of stout individuals who seem susceptible to every ailment.

One of the handicaps of being overweight is the danger of diabetes. Fat people have a marked tendency towards this disease. Although it is encountered in thin individuals, it is more often found in those who are overweight. In Germany during the World War, when the food supply was low, particularly fats and sweets, there was a marked decrease in the number of new cases of diabetes. Overweight individuals lost weight and were unable to get those substances that promote diabetes.

In former years medical students were taught that a person who was "fair, fat and forty" was in danger of gall bladder disease, and it is true that gallstones are much more commonly found in overweight than in underweight persons.

Another abnormality frequently found in the obese is high blood pressure, and when neglected this leads to disturbances of the heart and kidneys.

One may complain of shortness of breath and attribute it to his weight. In reality, it is due to a change in the muscles of the heart. Fatty degeneration of heart muscles is common in those who are markedly overweight, and if neglected may prove very serious.

Surgeons have pointed out that the obese are not likely to stand surgical operations as well as those of normal weight. Many other disadvantages of obesity could be enumerated. Statistics collected by insurance companies show that persons over forty years of age and fifteen per cent below average weight for age and height are the best risks. Those above average weight are considered poor risks, and many insurance companies will not consider their applications.

If you are too fat or much too thin, I would advise you to talk with your doctor. It may be well to have a thorough physical examination to find out whether there is anything fundamentally wrong. Before going on a diet or taking unusual exercises to reduce it is important to find that it is safe. Avoid pills and other doubtful remedies, for it is probable they are worthless and may do more harm than good.

If you are permitted to go on a diet, remember that reducing weight is a difficult, slow process, so do not expect to get rid of extra pounds rapidly. Bear in mind, too, that rapid loss of weight is dangerous.

M.H.K. Q.—What should a girl of 17, 5 ft. 4½ inches tall, weigh? Also a boy, aged 21, 5 ft. 9 inches tall? 2—What do you advise for pimples and blackheads?

A.—They should weigh, respectively, about 117 and 149 pounds. This is about the average weight for people of this age and height as determined by examination of a large number of persons. A few pounds above or below the average is a matter of little or no significance. 2—Correct your diet and avoid poor elimination. ## Glimpses of the Past

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Thursday, Aug. 17, 1922.

Settlement of the nationwide strike of railway shopmen through the intersession of other branches of unionized railway labor was believed to be near as leaders of five non-striking brotherhoods met a committee of railway executives in New York City.

President Harding delayed his scheduled appearance before congress with his message on the industrial situation and said that if the railway strike peace conference was successful, he might cancel his plans to deliver the message.

The Marion Athletic association forwarded its check for $1,000 as a deposit to insure its representation in the National Football league the coming season. The Marion team was to consist entirely of Indians, headed by Jim Thorpe.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Snyder of Silver street.

J. B. Patten was elected president of the Patten family organization at its fifteenth annual reunion held at Lincoln park.

Miss Marian McNeil entertained at a tea at her home on Superior street as a courtesy to Miss Mildred Jones, whose approaching marriage to F. Mitchell Cleary had been announced.

A company of friends of Miss Louise Cull, who was home from the Presbyterian Training school in Pittsburgh, entertained at a dinner party in her honor at the Colonial Inn.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

It was Saturday, Aug. 17, 1912.

Clarence Darrow was acquitted of a charge of jury-bribing in Los Angeles after a trial that had lasted since early in May. Darrow, described as "the famous advocate of the cause of union labor," had faced charges growing out of the sensational ending of the trial of James M. McNamara, confessed slayer of 21 persons.

In a dramatic speech in a debate before the senate, Senator LaFollette attacked the new Progressive party and swore new allegiance to progressive Republicanism.

The first annual reunion of the Denzer family was held near Waldo at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. William Denzer of Marion. In the election of officers William Denzer was chosen president.

It was reported that new employes of the Erie railroad moving into Marion were finding a shortage of homes to be a serious handicap.

At a meeting of officials and employes of the Marion-Osgood Co. tentative plans for erecting at least 10 modern homes for the company's workmen were discussed. The company had 120 acres platted in lots in the vicinity of its plant.

A message received here announced the death of Rev. O. A. Waldron at his home in Ames, N. Y. Rev. Waldron was pastor of the Free Baptist church here from 1884 to 1887.

Highlights of Ohio History

BY J. H. GALBRAITH

A VALLANDIGHAM RHAPSODY.

On Sept. 17, 1863, there was a rally of the Ohio Democrats at Wellsville, birthplace of Clement L. Vallandigham, then the party's gubernatorial candidate, though under banishment in Canada at the time for obstructing the government in the suppression of the rebellion.

It was a great day in the history of the little town as the parade passed by the old Vallandigham homestead. The local Democratic organ referred to this feature of the parade in its "write up" by describing the old mother of Vallandigham who stood in the yard of the home and looked "upon this great demonstration of high regard for the great apostle and champion of human rights during the reign of terror and high-handed usurpations of the Lincoln administration."

But Vallandigham did not become the nationally revered figure the little paper went on to predict. People will excuse opposition to war made before the country had declared war, but once the war has been entered upon, sentiment changes. It is somewhat egotistic, if nothing else, for one person to feel so sure he is right and the rest of the country wrong.

New York Day by Day

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Aug. 17—Cabaret life has been skimmed to "clip-joints," where patronage is solely strangers in town and gentlemen on the loose. They take the form of shady dance halls, side street speak-easies, cellar dives. Their safety is in the victim's fear of being dubbed a sucker.

The connection between gyp taxi drivers and such resorts is obvious. And freedom from arrest indicates protection. The driver suggests he knows a quiet place where the booze is "O.K." For this recommendation he gets ten per cent of whatever is spent.

An added lure is a winking suggestion that "there is always a good looking dame or so about." Once inside, the "dames" flock to the victim, flattering him into buying. The catch is in the check addition. The amount depends upon the befuddlement of the customer.

A squawk is handled with underworld psychology. Beetle-browed bouncers appear in a snarling manner. "What's the big idea? Trying to be a cheap skate with these little ladies?" And so on. Just when a free-for-all is in prospect, the manager comes over.

He wants to know, and with suavity, what's it all about. Certainly no one gets anything but fair treatment in this "jeernt." He waves the hired pug uglies away and is all sympathy. In the end a check for $200, which should be no more than $10, is settled for about $50.

• • •

Starkly gripping phrases hurtle out of the tight-lipped underworld. There is the story of the gangster whose pal was riddled to death in a warehouse foray. The escaping gangster circled about to telephone the head mobsman. "Jim," he explained, "has just gone cool on us."

• • •

There are, too, various stories as to the origin of the greeting, "Hello sucker!", generally credited to Texas Guinan. It became well known along Broadway about 10 years ago, yet Arthur Somers Roche, the novelist, was waggishly addressing intimates thus 20 years ago. Just as he does today.

The Marry-Go-Round

BY HELEN ROWLAND.

WHY GIRLS ARE BORED.

It is positively astonishing, in these days of free women, that so many girls should be complaining that they must either stay at home and read a good book, or else go out with bores, undesirables or saps.

You hear it and read it, everywhere. And lots of girls wail that they don't even meet any nice convenient saps, and demand to know "why a girl can't invite a man out to dinner or the theater, just as he might invite her."

As a matter of fact, there isn't any law in the land that prevents a girl from inviting a man to take her out. But, alas, there isn't any law in NATURE that prevents him from resenting it.

Society isn't going to throw a girl out on her ear because she does the pursuing or the wooing. But the man, alas, is—and does.

It was not society or the law or any delicate conventions that made the caveman pursue his lady-love, and pursue her the more ardently, the harder she ran away. It was just the perversity of masculine nature, which wants anything that is just out of reach, and prefers the woman who is trying to elude him to the one who is trying to catch him.

It wasn't convention or society or the law that made the king fall for the beggar-maid, who wasn't even thinking of him, when all the beauties of the court were ogling him and trying to charm him.

Why the Lord made men that way nobody knows, and nobody can tell you. But they have been that way ever since Adam grabbed the apple from Eve. It isn't mid-Victorian; it isn't medieval. It's primeval and aboriginal.

As a matter of fact, the girl of the Gay Nineties had a far better chance to "go after" a man—and did it far more effectively—than the free, untrammeled girl of today. But she did it in a round-about and less obvious way.

She did not have to invite him to take her out to dinner; because she had a home. And she could always get Mother or Father or Brother to invite him there for dinner, and help feed him in semi-insensibility. And if that wasn't "going after him," what was it?

When people stayed at home and ate in big dining-rooms instead of dinettes, the young and eligible male could be courted so casually and subtly that he didn't know what was happening to him, until he found himself facing the altar.

The modern girl, who believes in being brave and frank and honest, would scorn these methods as sneaky and degrading. But they worked! And is it any more "sneaky and degrading" to go fishing than to go hunting?

No! A man is not like a deer. You don't get anything by stalking him with a gun. He's like a fish. And you have to catch him with bait.

YOUTHFUL MELANCHOLY.

When Helen was 5 her father died. A favorite uncle became the object of her special love.

At his subsequent marriage she adopted a non-committal but not unfriendly attitude toward his wife. When Helen was eight a baby was born to them and she was taken to the hospital to see it.

Speechless she stood before the crib, then suddenly she cried out shrilly, pointing an accusing finger at her uncle who stood nearby, "That's your baby!" and demanded excitedly to be taken home.

She did not mention the baby again but on several occasions she said such things as, "He's not my favorite uncle at all. I'm sorry I ever made such a fuss about him."

Several days later, during which time her mood had gone from anger and excitement into an obvious depression, her mother heard her whispering with her brother, "People kill themselves sometimes, don't they? How do they do it? With a big knife?"

"No," the boy answered, "it would be easier to jump out of the window."

The mother, uneasy at this fantastic conversation, sought the advice of a psychologist. She was urged to show the child especial tenderness and to give her a doll baby of her own. Better still if this gift should come from the uncle.

Helen responded happily. The beloved uncle was once more reinstated in her affections. Had he not given her a doll baby for her very own? Surely he must love her very much.

The clouds that had been gathering were suddenly lifted and the child was restored to her usual friendly good spirits.

Cincinnati Prepares for 1-Day Annual Market To Fulfill Terms of Old Deeds

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 17—There will be a market in Fountain square in the heart of Cincinnati again this year—a one-day stand at that technically the city will have conformed to ancient deeds dedicating the square to market purposes.

As in past years, the market will be a little flower stand, and again there will be marked indifference as to whether anyone buys. A market will have been held, goods offered publicly for sale, and that's all that matters.

It's been going on for more than 80 years now, the city taking the easiest way out of a dispute over whether failure to hold a market will make effective clauses of the old deeds, and make good the claims of what heirs there may be to probably the most valuable property in Cincinnati.

Some assert the old deeds are invalid, and that its no use to hold a market. But erecting a one-day stand is cheaper than a court battle.

Once there was a market there, sure enough—a rambling, block-long structure of timber along Fifth street from Vine to Walnut. The fight began when Henry Probasco, pioneer merchant, volunteered to give the city a fountain, in memory of his brother-in-law and business partner, Tyler Davidson.

The old market was a suitable site, the city fathers decided. It was almost tumbling anyway, they pointed out.

But the butchers and grocers and farmers who had stalls there wouldn't be moved. They looked upon the place as peculiarly their own.

They were ousted only when, as a delegation of their number argued with city officials late one afternoon, crews from the street cleaning department descended on the market place, and two hours later the site was cleared, the building torn down about their heads.

To make way for the fountain, the city widened the street there, and it was then that die-hards slipped into their deeds the provisions that their ground was to be forever a market place.

Probasco's fountain went up in 1871. Emblematic of the spirit of water, it was cast in Munich, Germany, of bronze taken from old Dutch cannon. Even the granite facing blocks were imported, and so large were they that only one shipping line dared risk carrying them across the Atlantic, even that line brought them one at a time.

The fountain stands 36 feet high. It is understood to have cost Probasco more than $30,000.

RACE FOR GRANGE MASTERS PLANNED

A race in which masters of the subordinate granges of the county will take part has been arranged for the sports program scheduled for the annual Marion county grange picnic to be held Thursday at Lincoln park.

The picnic, which will open with a basket dinner at noon is open to all subordinate grange patrons and their families. Members of granges in the western half of the county, losers in a membership contest, will take part in a literary program.

CARDINGTON MAN TO SERVE SIX MONTHS

Man Fined on Driving Charge Also Sentenced for Non-Support.

Ralph Kries, 32, of Cardington, who Monday was fined $100 and costs in municipal court on a charge of driving while intoxicated, also has been sentenced to spend six months in the Columbus work house for failure to comply with a court order in a non-support action brought against him in 1929, municipal court officials said yesterday.

Kries was ordered to contribute toward the support of his two minor children when Daisy Kries brought suit against him in 1929. It is alleged that he failed to obey the order.

Kries was arrested recently on the charge of driving while intoxicated after he had driven through a traffic signal at West Center and Prospect streets.

Donald Maskill, 17, of 316 Olney avenue, who Monday was fined $10 and costs in municipal court on a charge of reckless driving, yesterday was refunded the fine and costs, and the record in the case was certified to Juvenile Judge Oscar Gast. Maskill's age prevents the municipal court from having jurisdiction in his case.

TWO CONCERNS TO OCCUPY NEW ROOM

The Marion Hat Shop, operated by John Alex, and the Quick Service Shoe Repair shop operated by Mike Cirami this week will move into a room at 113 East Center street. The hat shop formerly was located in the room just west of the new location, the shoe repair shop in the room east of it.

Alex recently took a five-year lease on the room from Fanny Peters Pease of Cincinnati. The room is being remodeled for their occupancy.

The ESSEX TERRAPLANE is here—on display at your Hudson-Essex Dealer's. See it, ride it, you may not need to put down one cent in cash to have it

Back of the ESSEX TERRAPLANE is not only more than 200,000 miles of road-testing, but the experience and capacity of Hudson, one of the oldest and most progressive manufacturers in the automobile industry—a company which for nearly a quarter-century has been distinguished by advanced engineering, sound manufacturing and dependable value in all its products

A new TYPE and KIND of Automobile

Two brothers named Wright flew a power-kite off the bleak sands of Kitty Hawk, and gave to the world the airplane.

Genius and daring, seeking new thrills, added hulls and keels to winged motors—and gave us hydroplane.

Today, the earthbound automobile takes on phantom wings—and you have the TERRAPLANE!

Not only a new model but a new kind of automobile, it springs full-powered from the independent, daring, Hudson-Essex engineering that has contributed more than 60 "first's" to automotive progress.

Because it skims the roadways of old terra firma with a fresh, smooth, soaring action akin to flight, Amelia Earhart christened it the TERRAPLANE.

Its new engineering principle is pneumounted power—power set free—with the highest ratio of power to weight ever achieved in a production car here or abroad. Its unit body-and-chassis construction is the first achievement of complete structural entity in any car.

In performance it out-starts, out-climbs, out-runs, out-curves and out-stays cars three times its weight and ten times its price.

TRAINING SHIP WITH 69 VICTIMS IN PORT

German Vessel Still Under Water; Divers Plan To Remove Bodies.

By The Associated Press

KIEL, Germany, Aug. 17 — The hulk of the naval training ship Niobe was dragged back to port today with the bodies of 69 cadets who perished when the ship foundered off the coast 22 days ago.

The hulk lay under water here this morning and divers hoped to reach the bodies and bring them ashore late today.

After the old training ship sank July 26, in a fierce squall, all the resources of the navy were rushed to the spot in an unsuccessful attempt to float her.

So divers went down, dynamited the masts away, and battened the hatchways down, reaching them through a tangled mass of ship's gear, and prepared the hulk to be towed in here under water.

When all the bodies have been taken out, they will be buried with impressive ceremonies in a joint grave here.

The women passed the half-way mark toward the record at 2:10 a. m., when they had completed 61 hours and 10 minutes aloft. They must remain in the air 123 hours and 20 minutes to beat the record of 122 hours and 20 minutes.

NO CUT IN DIVIDEND VOTED BY A. T. & T.

Directors' Action Interpreted To Indicate Expectations of Better Business.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 — The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. dividend record was kept inviolate today when directors declared the regular quarterly payment of $2.25 a share.

The company, which ranks as America's premier public utility, is one of few of the nation's first rank corporations which have maintained their regular dividend course against the onslaught of business adversity since 1929. Standard Oil of New Jersey, American Can, American Tobacco, R. J. Reynolds, National Biscuit and some of electric power companies are others which take rank in this group. U. S. Steel, General Motors Corp. and all but one of the big railroads, Chesapeake & Ohio, have been forced either to reduce or in many cases to omit payment of their regular common dividends.

The decision of the directors to continue the regular payments, in the face of decreased earnings, was widely interpreted as indicating expectations of improved business over the next several months.

Action Increases Trading on Mart

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 17—Active buying swept through the stock exchange today on announcement of distribution of the regular quarterly dividend of $2.25 a share by American Telephone and Telegraph Co. Trading was so active that the ticker fell slightly in arrears.

American Telephone, after dipping $2 around noon to $112 a share rallied to $113. United States Steel which had lagged around $41.50, down $1.50, ran up to $42.25.

While Wall street had generally expected that the telephone company would pay the regular dividend, there had been enough doubt to cause some wavering of confidence, in advance of the directors' meeting. This was reflected in fairly widespread selling of stocks, but this selling quickly evaporated when word was flashed that the directors had decided on the regular payment.

STATE LEGION MEET ENDS; BONUS SOUGHT

Criticizes Treatment of B. E. F.; Asks Investigation of Federal Reserve System.

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 17—The Ohio department of the American Legion was on record today "demanding" immediate payment of the bonus, and with a series of other resolutions of closely-ranking importance.

After voting on the measures and electing officers, the legionnaires brought their state convention to a close last night.

The convention adopted a resolution criticizing the treatment given the bonus expeditionary force when it was ousted from Washington by the use of bayonets and tear gas bombs.

Another resolution called for a congressional investigation to ascertain whether the country's general banking system and the federal reserve system in particular have functioned as intended for the good and welfare of the nation.

Among other resolutions adopted were a demand for legislation providing for pensions for widows and orphans of veterans, and a protest against "certain newspapers" for publishing "propaganda" against payment of the bonus.

2 OHIOANS KILLED IN 3-STORY FALLS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 17—Two men are dead today as the result of three-story falls.

John A. Kuster, 36, died shortly after midnight from injuries received when he plunged from the third story bedroom of his home, and less than an hour later, William C. Hill, 45, died of injuries received in a fall Monday.

Kuster fell head first on a cement sidewalk. Kuster, a veteran of the World war, died a few minutes after being removed to a hospital. In attempting to save himself Kuster grasped the curtain in his bedroom and tore a second floor awning from a window.

Hill received a broken neck when he lost his footing while working on top of a house.

PRISONER RELEASED IN BURGLARY CASE

Charles Lewis, alias Dexler, of Cleveland, recently returned to Marion from Lima to face a charge of attempted burglary of a Marion grocery in 1930, was freed today. Judge George B. Scofield in common pleas court today suspended sentencing Lewis.

Lewis was committed to the Lima state hospital until restored to reason when he pleaded guilty and insanity to an attempted burglary charge in 1930. He was returned to Marion Monday after Dr. W. H. Vorbau, superintendent of the hospital, found that Lewis had been "restored to reason."

Cloudy weather tonight, followed by slightly cooler temperatures Thursday is the government forecast.

VETERAN THRESHER IS GIVEN PARTY

Neighbors Honor Pleasant Township Man; Served Community 50 Years.

He started in as a fireman for his uncle, Phillip Seiter, and Jacob Dutt, later bought equipment of his own, and now has two threshing outfits.

Seiter's record of 50 years of continuous service in his community is believed to be without parallel in this section of the state.

Last night's party is believed to be the only instance on record where a community in this vicinity has held a celebration to honor a thresher.

• • •

FIFTY years have brought around many changes in threshing, Seiter declares. When he started threshing, all equipment was horsedrawn, including steam engines. The smoke stack on these old style machines folded over while the unit was being transported.

The first separators were hand fed, requiring a man to stand at the feeder and thrust the wheat into the cylinder. Now an endless web carries the sheaves into the machine.

Threshing was somewhat of a slower process then. Seiter recalls that he has threshed as high as 700 to 800 bushels in a day with old equipment, a fair average even today. However, the men then began working at daybreak and worked until darkness haled activities. Now, Seiter says, threshers usually begin work about 8 a. m. and quit at 6 p. m.

Seiter this year threshed at a lower rate per bushel than at any time in his 50 years of experience. The charge this year, where steam-powered machinery was used, was two cents a bushel for oats and four cents a bushel for wheat. Never before were these prices below three and five cents, respectively. Boom times have pushed them as high as five and 10 cents.

The wages of threshing crews have varied markedly over the 50-year period. Seiter has paid from 75 cents a day to $5 a day to his "hands" and now pays them around $3 a day.

Has Used Seven Engines

Seiter has used seven tractors and steam and traction engines, and several separators during the 50-year period. They include five Huber steam traction engines, a Leader, also made in Marion, and a Gar-Scott made in Richmond, Ind. He estimates that he has spent $50,000 for new equipment and repairs at the Huber Manufacturing Co. during the last half century.

Fifty years ago, farmers often hauled their shocked wheat into their barns, making it possible for threshers to continue their work until winter was at hand. This, Seiter explains, was caused largely by the scarcity of threshing equipment. There are now 10 machines for every one when he began threshing, he said. With more machines available, farmers thresh in the field rather than haul their grain into barns.

"I used to thresh from Marion to Prospect when machines were scarce, but now I seldom go out of the township," Seiter said.

The cost equipment also has undergone considerable change in a half century. A separator formerly cost $400 and a steam engine, horse drawn sold for $800. Now a steam tractor costs about $2,000 and a separator will cost $1,500, Seiter said.

Seiter left school at the age of 14 to begin operating a saw mill. Over a period of 55 years he did custom sawing in the county, moving two portable mills from farm to farm. He has sawed more than 1,000,000 feet of lumber in this county, he estimated.

Threshing and sawing dovetailed nicely. The season for one began about the time the other began to lag, and the steam power units could be used for both purposes.

Partner with Father

For 49 years, ending last April 22 when his father died, Seiter and W. H. Seiter Sr. were partners in threshing and sawing. Now Harley Seiter, son of W. H. Seiter Jr., has assumed the partnership, and the work continues. Activity of the sawmills has been curtailed in recent years, as the partners have found it no longer profitable to move their mills. All sawing now is done on the Seiter farm.

Half a century ago, if a man wanted to build a barn, the portable mill would be moved to his farm and sufficient lumber for the purpose would be sawed at 40 cents a hundred feet. Now the mills are stationary and the charge is $1 a hundred.

Seiter also farms 76 acres in addition to his threshing and sawing activities. Te is a native of the township. In three years he and Mrs. Seiter will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary. They are parents of a son, Harley, and a daughter, Mrs. Flossie Rice.

Seiter was a member of the township board of education from 1908 to 1916, resigning when his ideas of conducting schools failed to agree with the rules laid down by the state department of education.

Those who are interested in a broader and more comprehensive understanding of the economic principles which control the environment in which business functions are invited by the university to hear Professor Kimball's opening lecture on the night of Sept. 27 at 7 o'clock. # New Story Tells of Gamble With Marriage and Wealth

"Nothing Venture," The Star's Next Fiction Serial, Is Thrilling Narrative.

EXTRAORDINARY and peculiar provisions in wills are found frequently in the probate courts, but rarely is there one so filled with potential dynamite as that of Ambrose Weare. It is his final testament that furnishes the story for "Nothing Venture," The Star's new serial by Patricia Wentworth.

PATRICIA WENTWORTH

Weare left his entire fortune to his grandson, Jervis Weare, with only one condition—Jervis must be married within three months and a day after the old man's death.

The will also provided if Jervis failed to marry within the stipulated period, the fortune would go to Rosamund Carew. Nothing so unusual about that, perhaps, except Rosamund Carew, in addition to being Jervis' cousin, is his fiancee. They had been engaged for months prior to the elder Weare's death and continued unmarried afterwards.

Rosamund wins either way. If she marries Jervis, her husband is wealthy; if Jervis fails to marry Rosamund gets the fortune herself. The will does not bind Jervis to marry Rosamund, but as the story opens, three days before his final 24 hours of grace, he still expects her to become his bride. There isn't much time to find a substitute, if it should be necessary.

Around this ironic situation, Miss Wentworth has written a powerful story of romance and adventure, a serial packed with action, excitement and thrills. Watch for the first chapter of "Nothing Venture" in The Star, Monday, Aug. 22.

The Stars Say—

For Thursday, Aug. 18

ACCORDING to the lunar transits this may be a day of minor changes, journeys or change of environment. Something of a surprising or unexpected nature may instigate this move. The mutual aspects are favorable for gratifying developments of a private or secret nature, involving either documents, contracts or understandings of a rather shrewd, clever or diplomatic character. There is a sign of small loss or petty annoyances or irritations. Be careful with speech.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of some minor changes, journeys or removals, quite surprising for their suddenness or because unforeseen. They may be instigated by some secret arrangements or understandings, or actuated by conspiracies, schemes or subtle connivings. There is slight danger of annoyance by hasty speech or impetuous deeds, or of small losses. Merely be careful with tongue and temper, and all may thrive. A child born on this day may be unusually talented and original, having keen insight into subtle or curious problems, winning its way by artifice or craft.

GALION CITY BUDGET CUT

Reduced $3,251 and Gets OK of Council; Act on Electric Rates.

Special to The Star

GALION, Aug. 17—The city budget for 1933 was accepted Tuesday night by city council when it was presented by the finance committee. The total is $60,233, an estimated reduction under last year of $3,251.91. The city clerk was instructed to advertise it in the office of the city auditor for inspection with a final hearing to be held at an adjourned meeting of council the evening of Aug. 30. It is possible that the reduction will include elimination of several assistants to clerks of the city.

A communication from Mayor H. H. Hartman reported that the board of control, composed of Charles Geiger, superintendent of the electric light plant, George Stinson, accountant of the department and Mr. Kammerer, engineer of the plant, following a study of the proposed estimate of the light rate change, had recommended that there be no general cut made on account of decreased income. It is believed that when the new boiler is added and other changes made that the increased efficiency of the plant will make it possible to make the decrease in the light rate later.

Council, however, passed an ordinance amending ordinance No. 554 passed July 7, 1931, the amendment to change the rates in the general lighting department of the plant which will save the consumer about one cent per kilowatt hour per month. This change will make a saving of about $10,000 a year from all consumers, officials said.

An ordinance introduced some time ago to repeal ordinances which declared the necessity for establishment and maintenance of a firemen's pension fund, and the police relief fund, which were both passed Jan. 6, 1931, was reported back to the council for its second reading. It had been referred to the committee on rules and regulations. A motion was made to give it a third reading at the next council meeting.

Another ordinance was passed approving and adopting plans and specifications for a standard private drive as prepared by City Engineer K. A. Polster. The plans are to be made in order to keep the property owner from making mistakes in the construction of the drive from the property line to the outside curb line, which according to the engineer's plans should be made of concrete or brick.

COUNCIL MOVES TO PREVENT ACCIDENTS

Bucyrus Officials Ask State To Order Full-Time Watchmen on Two Crossings.

BUCYRUS, Aug. 17—Steps looking toward avoidance of a future fatal accident at West Mansfield street Pennsylvania railroad crossing were taken by members of the city council last night, when a motion was passed recommending that the state public utilities commission order 24-hour protection at both the East and West Mansfield street crossings of the Pennsylvania railroad.

A survey of movements over the tracks showed 10 passenger trains passing over the crossing during the hours between 11 p. m. and 6 a. m. when the crossings are unguarded.

Attorney and Mrs. Loren M. Atmur of Lima were killed when their car was struck by an eastbound passenger train Sunday morning.

An ordinance, sponsored by local photographers, providing for the licensing of transient photographers, was adopted by council. Transient photographers will in future be required to pay a license of $10 for each day of operation within the city or subject themselves to a fine of from $50 to $200 for each day.

That residents of the city might be provided with a convenient entrance to Aumiller park, council adopted a resolution petitioning the county commissioners to construct a bridge at Gay street.

Assurance that the city would be placed at no expense in repairing streets where Columbus, Delaware & Marion Electric company tracks are to be removed upon abandonment of the line, was given by council Tuesday night when an ordinance was passed giving consent to the state highway department to improve 1,600 feet of pavement between the tracks. Electric company officials recently indicated that they would partially seal the rails and level the pavement on the remaining trackage.

The old Monnett hospital, formerly one of the show places of the city when it was erected as a private residence on what was known as "Finley Hill" will be razed as the result of an order made by council. Sale and removal of the old building, which has served as a municipal hospital for over 15 years, was authorized.

Miracle Needed To Stop Yanks' Championship Drive

CLEVELAND TRAILING 10.5 GAMES AFTER DEFEATING ATHLETICS

League Leaders Win Double Header from Tigers; Cincinnati Nosed Out.

By The Associated Press

With a nine-game winning streak, the New York Yankees have soared into their longest American league lead of the season, and nothing short of a miracle, it seems can prevent them from capturing the flag.

A double triumph over the Detroit Tigers yesterday boosted the Yankees' advantage to 10½ games over the Cleveland Indians and the Philadelphia Athletics who were virtually tied for second place, although the Indians had a slight edge in percentage.

Thanks to Tony Lazzeri, Bill Dickey and Joe Sewell, the Yankees won the first game, 13-8. Johnny Allen hung up his second victory of the Yankees' current winning streak in the nightcap, 7-3, allowing the Tigers only six hits.

Glenn Myatt's homer with one on in the fifth, enabled Cleveland to beat the Athletics, 3-2 in an exciting pitching duel between Mel Harder and George Earnshaw. Mule Haas put the A's within one of a tie when he clouted a homer with one on in the eighth but Harder applied the brakes.

Washington scored four runs in the eighth to beat Chicago, 5-3, while Walter Stewart turned in a seven-hit game to pitch the St. Louis Browns to a victory over Boston, 3-2.

In the National, Brooklyn's Dodgers fell before the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-0. It was a scoreless duel until the eighth when the Pirates got all three runs. The defeat dropped Brooklyn one and one-half games behind the second place Pirates.

The Chicago Cubs retained their one-game lead by winning a sensational game from the Boston Braves, 4-3. The Braves drove Lon Warneke from the box in the eighth, but the Cubs came back with four in the ninth to win.

The St. Louis Cardinals beat the Phillies, 3-2, as Paul Derringer had a slight edge over Flint Rhem in a pitcher's duel. Big Fred Fitzsimmons granted only four hits as the New York Giants nosed out Cincinnati, 2-1.

Why, Referee Asked, Didn't Carnera Win?

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 17—Stanley Poreda, 23-year-old blond boxer of Jersey City, spotted Primo Carnera 62½ pounds last night and won the referee's decision after 10 rounds but the arbiter of the contest must explain why.

Commissioner George E. Keenen, who was at the ringside, wants to know exactly why Referee Joe Mangold of Atlantic City awarded the decision to Poreda and said he would ask Mangold to explain and show him his score card.

The 264-pound Italian was warned in four rounds for roughness that included backhand blows, pulling and elbowing and drew the boos of the crowd of 15,000.

Aside from that, Carnera exhibited a whipping left hand that jabbed Poreda's head time and again but the Jersey youngster supplied his own telling blows in the late rounds and reached Carnera's mid section with clouts that made the big fellow wince and double up.

AMATEURS TO MEET IN SECOND SERIES OF ELIMINATIONS

Thirty-Nine Rounds Scheduled on Card for Thursday Night at Shovel.

Amateur leather throwers of north central Ohio will tangle Thursday night at 8:30 in the second of the first-round elimination series of the boxing tournament. The card will be put on in the open air arena at the Steam Shovel athletic field.

Amateurs from Tiffin, Willard, Crestline, Upper Sandusky, Bucyrus, Martel, Marion and Delaware are slated to compete with 39 or more rounds scheduled.

A battle royal is planned as a curtain raiser to give fans added entertainment.

Pairings will be made tonight by directors of the tournament.

Last week the first elimination was held. Thirteen boxers dropped out of the running and this week the original field of 75 will be weeded out by as many more. The finals of the first round will be held next week. Champions of eight classes will be chosen in matches later.

CALVARY WINS OVER EPWORTH NO. 1, 8-1

Homer Upsets Baldauf's Hopes for No-Run Victory in Contest.

A homer by Snyder upset A Baldauf's hopes for a shutout victory when Calvary defeated Epworth No. 1 last night 8 to 1 in the only recreation ball game carded in the first Sunday School league.

Snyder smashed out his homer in the fifth inning with the sacks as vacant as a boiler room on a hot summer night. The Calvary hurler allowed five hits.

The game, a postponed affair, did not decide anything in particular for both are well out of the running. It did, however, increase Calvary's string of wins to six.

Calvary stepped off to an early lead with three runners crossing the plate in the first inning. Two runs were scored in the seventh and then Messenger's homer in the ninth sent two men in ahead of him.

Tonight's schedule brings together two of the outstanding teams of the league. The Presbyterian and St. Mary nines will class in a Y. M. C. A. play ground fund benefit that will also have a decided bearing on the championship race.

If the Presbyterians win they will gain undisputed possession of the title. If St. Mary wins a three-way tie will exist, making necessary a play off before the little world series can be started.

BRINGING UP FATHER BY GEORGE McMANUS

GENTLEMEN, I WILL NOW INTRODUCE TO YOU, MISS ANN TIQUE WHO WILL TALK TO YOU ABOUT THE COMING ELECTION FOR MAYOR OF OUR FAIR CITY
GENTLEMEN, DON'T BE DECEIVED BY THIS CANDIDATE, MR. JIGGS. WHAT THIS CITY NEEDS IS AN INTELLIGENT FAIR-MINDED PERSON, ONE WHO WILL HAVE THE PEOPLE'S INTEREST AT HEART.
WE DON'T WANT A WEAK, FAT-HEAD, A MAN WHO IS AFRAID OF HIS WIFE, WHO DOESN'T EVEN DARE TO THINK FOR HIMSELF. IF YOU DON'T INTEND TO VOTE FOR HIM LOTTA VOTES, AT LEAST YOU SHOULD WANT A MAN WHO IS THE MASTER OF HIS HOME.
WHERE CAN YOU FIND ONE?
THAT REMINDS ME-MY WIFE TOLD ME TO BE HOME AT TWO O'CLOCK
